What Is a Rich Man?
5 Billions for Ford—
Captain of Your Soul.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

BIG day in Wall Street, all sale records eclipsed, making $500,000 for a seat and a chance to do business seems a bargain.

THE tape couldn't keep up with orders and ran more than an hour late all day. "Nickel" and "Radio" caused hearts to beat faster, especially the hearts of poor bears that had gone "short."

Intelligent bears will change to the bull side or take a vacation for four years.

INCOME tax returns show 283 Americans with net incomes of $1,000,000 a year or more. The number has increased by fifty-two in two years. Citizens reporting incomes of $5,000,000 or more number only TEN. There were fourteen of them in 1926.

ONCE a man with a million was considered rich. To be REALLY "rich" now you need $1,000,000 a year.

THERE are several billionaires in existence that modestly refrain from talking about it.

Henry Ford is past 60, but if his new car pays as well as he and others think it will, he will easily add five billions to his fortune in the next 30 years of his life.

HOW many automobiles can this country absorb? Henry Ford, in October, made 106,404 cars and trucks, and is now manufacturing at the rate of 6,000 a day.

The Chevrolet company has sold more than 1,000,000 cars thus far in 1928, and is breaking all its records.

DO you remember when solemn bankers said the country was going to the dogs financially because people were buying about 1,000,000 cars a year, and refused to lend on automobiles?

Now the people are using 24,000,000 automobiles, and buying at the rate of several millions more a year. And the nation doesn't seem to be bank rupt.

MANY a young person has spouted: "It matters not how straight the gate, How charged with punishment the scroll, I am the master of my fate, I am the captain of my soul."

THE Reverend E. H. Emmett, Congregationalist, says those who talk about being "captain of my soul" are only "whistling loudly in the dark," making "an outward noise to cover up an inward fear and disquiet."

RIVER COUNTY PRISONERS SAW BARS, ESCAPE IN AUTOMOBILE

One Fugitive Found Guilty of Robbery Yesterday.

FIVE IN CELLS

Delivery Plotted on Second Floor of Building.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Nov. 14.—Ten men all under indictment, early today sawed their way out of the Belmont county jail here, and escaped in a waiting automobile. One of the men, William Porter, 27, Bellaire, had been found guilty of robbery, later yesterday, and was awaiting sentence.

Five prisoners on the second floor of the jail remained behind. Prisoners on the first and third floors did not know of the delivery.

Suspect Outside Aid.

The men effected their release through an outside agency, according to Neal Davis, Negro, one of the five men who remained behind.

Davis reported to Jailer George Douglas that he was awakened about 3 a. m. by the grating of saws on the bars of a window.

Twenty minutes later, he said, the men crawled through the window. Davis could not report the delivery to Douglas, he said, as the jailer sleeps in the jail office on the first floor.

Fourth Jail Break in 18 Months.

This is the fourth jail delivery in 18 months, it is said. All of the escapes have been made through the same window.

Those who escaped, all under indictment, were:

W. M. Combs, Martins Ferry, burglary; John Meins, Martins Ferry, burglary; William Hawkins, Bellaire, larceny; William Moss, Bellaire, pointing firearms; Charles Stephens, Martins Ferry, robbery; Charles Davis, Negro, Powhatan, burglary; John Mallory, Negro, Bellaire, burglary; Eugene Dennis, Powhatan, assault and battery; Benjie Spencer, Negro, St. Clairsville, liquor charge.

DISPLAYMEN HEAR JOSEPH KEENAN

A demonstration in show card writing, featuring color effects and designs, was given by Joseph Keenan, at a dinner meeting of the East Liverpool Displaymen's club in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. at 6 o'clock last night.

C. F. Brenton, Detroit, representative of the Mallory Hat company, was also a guest. He spoke briefly relative to window display contest conducted by the company.

Plans for the organization of a class in show card writing and other winter activities were discussed.

Selections were played by the club orchestra. Vocal solos were given by Earl Malone.

MEKKA SANCTORUM SUPPER TONIGHT

A roast beef supper will be served at a meeting of Mekka Sanctorum No. 231, Ancient Mystic Order of Samarians, in the Odd Fellows' temple, West Sixth street, at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

WOMAN IS KILLED BY MOTOR TRUCK

NILES, O., Nov. 14.—Mrs. Howard Thomas, 35, is dead today of a fractured skull suffered last night when she was pinned beneath a truck driven by her son, William, 19. The truck collided with a coupe driven by Howard Humphries, star high school football quarterback here. Miss Anne McDermott, in the coupe, was cut by glass but the others were uninjured. The victim is survived by her husband and three children.

WIDOW IS FOUND DEAD ON FARM

CANTON, O., Nov. 14.—Margaret J. Kinnaman, 80, widow of William Kinnaman, Civil war veteran, was found dead in a field on a farm eight miles north of Massillon today. Coroner T. C. McQuate said death resulted from cerebral hemorrhage.

Five Passengers and 18 Seamen Reveal Grim Facts.

By DAVID P. SENTER

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Of the first three lifeboats that put off from the stricken Lamport and Holt liner Vestrus containing women and children, two sank and one capsized.

These grim facts were brought to port today by the five passengers and 18 seamen who were snatched from death by the north German Lloyd liner Berlin.

It was the old order of the sea—"women and children first"—that cost so many lives among the women and children on the liner. And it was the irony of fate that the order which usually is the salvation of women and children should have brought them down in the foundering of the Vestrus.

Panic Follows Disaster

The survivors on the Berlin brought a gruesome picture of the tragedy which followed the launching of the open boats. The passengers, while on board and in the face of danger, remained calm. But panic followed the disaster to the lifeboats in the water.

As the rolling seas swamped and sank two of the boats and the other turned over keel up, screams of agonized fear came from the water-filled with wreckage and struggling forms of women and children.

Carlos Quiros, chancellor of the Argentine embassy, Washington, was strong in censure of the life-saving operations on the sinking Vestrus.

"I was astonished," said Quiros, "at the lack of discipline among the crew of the Vestrus at the launching of the lifeboats. The work was very slow.

Big Hole in One Boat.

"One boat they got lowered had a big hole in it. The crew started nailing and patching it up. It sank within from 50 to 60 feet of the ship.

"All the boats were overloaded. Twenty-five persons in one was ample.

"I started to get in a boat which I

COUNTY VOTE TOTAL 35,680

J. S. Hilbert Misses Nov. 6 Poll by 680.

Columbiana county's total vote in last Tuesday's election was 35,680, a record poll, according to figures announced today by Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections.

The vote in East Liverpool, which also established a new mark, was 9,198. This represents about 96 percent of the 9,565 registered electors.

Pre-election estimates of J. S. Hilbert, chief deputy of the election board, placed the county vote at 35,000 and the vote in East Liverpool at 9,000.

Combined vote of the Socialist, Socialist-Labor, Prohibitionist and Communist party candidates for president was 392. Official vote of Herbert Hoover, Republican, was 26,465, while Governor E. Smith, Democrat, polled 7,461.

He took off at 12:50 p. m. yesterday and arrived at the Chamber of Commerce airport about 20 minutes later. He left today for the Cincinnati airport.

Sunken Vestrus Death Toll Placed at 105 As Rescue Ships Dock

U. S. Battleship Wyoming, which picked up eight persons, steams all night over scene of disaster, but fails to find any more passengers or seamen adrift.

WOMEN, CHILDREN SUFFER HEAVIEST CASUALTIES AS LIFEBOATS CAPSIZE

Three Negro Members of Crew Prove Heroes. While Captain and Wireless Operator are Reported Lost—Rescued Persons Criticize Ship's Officers for Delay in "S O S" Calls.

One hundred and fifty survivors from the sunken liner Vestrus were landed at New York today by two rescue ships.

The American Shipper had on board 127 passengers and members of the crew; the German liner Berlin carried 23 survivors, including five passengers and 18 seamen.

The French tankship Myriam with an indefinite quota of survivors is due at New York late tonight.

A recheck of the rescue chart at noon put the number of persons unreported, at from 105 to 115.

The U. S. battleship Wyoming, which picked up five women and three men, steamed all night over the scene of the disaster, but failed to find any more survivors. She is expected to put into Hampton Roads, Va., late today. Forty-four of the American Shipper's 127 survivors were passengers.

Women and children suffered the heaviest casualties. They were sent off in the first lifeboat from the Vestrus. Two of these boats sank; the third capsized.

Heroism Praised.

Some of the surviving passengers, upon reaching New York, bitterly criticized officers and seamen on the Vestrus, claiming they were too slow in sending out "SOS" calls and in launching the boats. However, individual acts of heroism by the seamen were highly praised.

Three Negro members of the Vestrus' crew proved heroes of the disaster. They said 19 of the 23 persons taken aboard the Berlin.

Capt. William J. Carey and Wireless Operator O'Loughlin died at sea. They plunged into the ocean from the ship and were seen no more.

Abandon Hope for Other Survivors.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Admiral Hughes, chief of naval operations, informed International News Service today that he regarded the rescue of further living members of the crew or passengers from the sunken Vestrus as "practically impossible."

The weather was not awfully cold following the wreck," Admiral Hughes said, "but I do not believe any survivors could have escaped drowning in the high seas which have been running since the wreck."

Hughes declared the Wyoming would be kept in the vicinity of the disaster as long as there was even a fair possibility of further rescue. He was awaiting a report from Vice Admiral H. M. Taylor, fleet commander on the Wyoming, before issuing instructions as to how much longer the battleship would remain on the scene.

He considered it extremely unlikely, however, that the Wyoming would remain longer than dusk today.

Many Children Missing.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Out of the tale of horror which came up from the sea today the outstanding note of tragedy was the large number of little children, helpless against the surge of storm and human strife for life, who are missing from the lost Lamport and Holt liner Vestrus.

Over the 105 persons not reported today, about a score of them were children, whose parents were passengers on the ill-fated ship.

The first of the survivors, still shaken by their battle against death in darkness and fog on the turbulent Atlantic, arrived here this morning on the North German Lloyd liner Berlin. They brought with them a narrative both thrilling and pathetic.

The Berlin reached quarantine at 5:45 a. m., and prepared to proceed as quickly as possible to her pier where relatives awaited the refugees from the Vestrus.

American Shipper Lands 44 Passengers, 83 of Crew.

40 ARE INJURED

Some So Nerve-Shaken They Cannot Talk of Horror.

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Dramatic details of the disaster that befell the ill-fated liner Vestrus 240 miles off the Virginia capes were related by 127 survivors of the shipwreck who arrived in New York today aboard the American merchant liner American Shipper which rescued them from lifeboats and pieces of wreckage as they were bobbing about in the mountainous waves. All of them told of the night of horror after the Vestrus sank. Some were so nerve-shaken by their experiences that they could not talk.

Wrapped in blankets and some of them without shoes, the 44 passengers and 83 members of the crew that were rescued by the American Shipper were in a state of near collapse when they set foot on shore. About 40 of them were treated aboard ship for immersion and injuries.

Captain Goes Down With Ship.

"I shudder when I recall what happened," said Mrs. Earl De Vore, of Los Angeles, the wife of an automobile racer who was rescued after she had been tossed about in two different lifeboats for hours.

Her husband is among the missing.

One after another told how, suddenly, the lifeboats were lowered, women and children put in the first two. How they had scrambled into the other lifeboats. How those who

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
We are girls in our early teens and would like to know the answers to these questions:

1—When a girl and boy promise to correspond, should the girl write first?
2—Should a girl allow herself to be kissed after she has been taken home from a dance or movie to show her affection for him?

3—Should girls in their early teens go out riding with boys?
4—Should a girl invite boys to go over to her house when her parents are away from home?

Thanking you in advance,
CHUMS.

CHUMS: 1—If the young man goes

Tempting Taste! Instant Relief
—Then Cold Just Disappears
When Treated This Way

Neglecting autumn colds is sure to cause needless misery and may risk pneumonia. So doctors are now recommending a method that is giving quicks sure relief—not only in extreme hospital cases but in vast numbers of homes in East Liverpool and vicinity.

Miss Edith Dennis, for example, neglected her cold until her eyes became inflamed, her nose stopped up and congestion started spreading so bad she called her doctor who advised Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a hospital certified compound of wild cherry, terpentine, etc.

With the first pleasant swallow she felt its comforting, healing warmth. Treated began instantly and in an hour then he should write first. If the young lady is in her place to drop a card or friendly note. But don't begin a silly sentimental correspondence, for it sometimes leads to most embarrassing situations.

2—She certainly should not.

3—That depends on whether their parents permit it, and it is always best to have some one older along as chaperon.

4—Emphatically NO, unless there is some one to chaperon the party.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl sixteen years old and in love with a boy nineteen. We have known one another all our lives and have liked one another for six years. He has high ideals and a very good character. He would never lie. He does not drink nor smoke nor swear. I do all these things he hates. Lately we have drifted apart because I do those things. How can I win him back?

JOAN: If you truly love the young man, it should not be hard for you to give up the things he dislikes. Naturally, a man wants his sweetheart to be a lady in all ways, and only by proving to him that you are a lady and show a willingness to adapt your own ideals to his, can you hope of winning back his friendship. Why not try? I'm sure you will be much happier in the love of such a man than by cheapening yourself in the eyes of all men by "petting" with them all. Don't you think so?

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Am I still I do? I am a girl of eighteen and I am going with two young men, but I dislike one. He has high ideals and a very good character. He would never lie. He does not drink nor smoke nor swear. I do all these things he hates. Lately

I am going with another young man and love him dearly and he loves me. How could I tell him that I do not care for his company?

BROWN EYES:
BROWN EYES: You are only prolonging the agony when you persist in going about with someone for whom you do not care. If you are in love with another, you should tell the first young man that your feeling for him does not warrant your going about with him, as you cannot return his love. But be very sure of yourself before you make a decision.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl of 16 years and have been going with a very nice boy for about three years. I love him very much and he says that he loves me also.

What I want to know is this: Is there any harm in kissing him if he should ask me? I would like your advice very much.

BLUE-EYED BILLY:

BLUE-EYED BILLY: I think it would be much better if you saved your lips for the ONE man when he comes along, my dear. True, there is no actual harm in a kiss, but it is always better to keep a check on your emotions.

Comfort.

Resting quietly in his apartment in the Traveler's hotel, Evangelist Billy Sunday was preparing himself on Monday for the arduous work of the second week of his six-week campaign in East Liverpool which he began again this afternoon and which he will continue at 7:30 tonight with a meeting for everybody at the Second and Washington streets' tabernacle.

Presbyterians of the co-operating revival area will attend tonight as a denomination. They will sit together in the auditorium. Because Mr and Mrs. Sunday are Presbyterians as well as Mr. Matthews, the pianist of the evangelistic party, the event looks as one of more than ordinary interest.

Aside from Homer Rodeheaver, who spent the day in Pittsburgh, all of the other members of Mr. Sunday's entourage rested.

Two district prayer meetings this morning were addressed by Mrs. Sunday and Miss Florence Kinney. The latter spoke at Orchard Grove and the former at the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal churches. Large groups were present.

PETERSON ATTENDS GRID GAME.
The initial week of the tabernacle meetings has demonstrated the claim of the builders of the structure that it would prove a place of comfort. George Brokaw, chairman of the building committee, has disclosed that at least one of the furnaces in the building has not as yet been used, while two stoves alongside the choir loft have not been placed in position. The temperature of the interior has been all that could be desired. Even on Sunday afternoon the evangelist complained of the heat.

The revival in East Liverpool has the added feature of reuniting the campaign assistants of Mr. Sunday for the first time since last January. Following the meeting in St. Louis, Mo. Rodeheaver visited in Europe and later various sections of this country. He will continue with the party during the Elyria, Ohio, visit, but will not go to Corpus Christie, Texas, and Sterling, Col., the two next places scheduled in the 1928 itinerary.

Albert Peterson, advance man, enjoyed on Monday reactions from his experiences in witnessing the Iowa State football team defeat Ohio State in Columbus on Saturday. Because one of the members of the Iowa eleven was from Ottumwa, his home town, he took his first trip in 14 years from a campaign to see the contest. Accompanied by Paul Beckwith, Rodeheaver's secretary and assistant pianist, he left East Liverpool immediately after the meeting Friday night and reached the Capital City at 4 o'clock the next morning.

Party Represents Six States.

Procuring seats through advance work of Chief Usher Will T. McNutt, they were enabled to sleep a few hours before going to stadium. Before and after the contest they visited with Reed Quist, a 20-year old 190-pound member of the Iowa team who is of the same nationality as Peterson and Custodian Willis Locke with the latter of whom he has frequently played baseball.

Taking a sleeper at 10 o'clock Saturday night the two returned to East Liverpool in time for Mr. Peterson to substitute for the Rev. F. A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, on Sunday morning.

During a talk to the First Presbyterian church Sunday school, Miss Florence Kinney stressed the fact that she is from Springfield, Ohio, she thus being the only member of the evangelistic party from the Buckeye state. Mr. and Mrs. Sunday now have legal residence in Oregon. Rode-heaver is from Indiana; Matthews from Kentucky, and Peterson and Locke from Iowa, while Beckwith brings Michigan representation into the local campaign.

Babies are being cared for at a nursery in the First Presbyterian church which fact Mr. Sunday is stressing nightly.

Oldest Regular Attendant is 80. Perhaps the oldest regular attendant at the revival so far is the Rev. J. W. Dorrance, of Santa Barbara, Cal. He is in his 80th year and is here visiting his brother, James M. Dorrance of Avondale street, and the latter's daughter, Miss Jane Dorrance, a teacher in the city schools. Born in the Yellow Creek region, the Rev. Mr. Dorrance went to the Pacific coast in 1883. He has held pastorates in Washington, Nevada, Utah and California. At intervals throughout the years he has returned to his native state. Until now, however, he never has had the opportunity of hearing Mr. Sunday.

Mr. Sunday has worn spats at all of his appearances in East Liverpool. "I use them to keep my ankles warm," he explains.

SAILOR AWAITS COURT ACTION IN JAIL DEATH

Set Aside Atlanta Sentence Against J. T. Nevin.

VICTIM BEATEN
Don Prentiss' Head Crushed With Iron Pipe.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 14.—James T. Nevin, 39, lake sailor, who killed his sleeping comrade in the county jail here early yesterday by beating him with a piece of iron pipe, will probably be indicted for first degree murder by the county grand jury, as a four-year sentence to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta had been set aside today.

Nevin's victim was Don Prentiss, 41, formerly an executive of the General Motors sales force in Detroit. Prentiss is said to have held a $25,000 a year position with the Olds Motor division of General Motors. The company bought his contract a year ago for $12,000, it is reported.

On Sept. 20, Prentiss was arrested here with a girl giving her name as Virginia Palmer, said to have been a nurse for his two children in Detroit. He was sentenced to a year in Atlanta for violating the Mann act.

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE: GO LIGHT ON LAXATIVES!

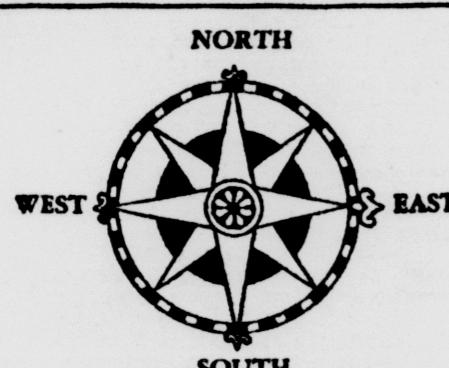

Everyone needs a laxative AT TIMES. But there's no need for making it a HABIT. If you have the habit, you can be rid of it in thirty days. Or less! And this is how:

The next time you go to take any strong cathartic—don't. Instead, take a little cascara. That's not a vicious drug, but the bark of a tree. The laxative made with cascara couldn't harm a child. It is, in fact, the one cathartic many physicians will approve for children. Gentle as it is, cascaring is just as thorough in cleansing the colon as the more powerful purges that actually sap a person's strength.

Proof that there's no habit from cascara begins the very day after taking, instead of being clogged worse than

NAB SUSPECT IN YEGG JOB

Cleveland Police Frustate Attempt to Crack Safe.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 14.—One man was under arrest here and a second was sought in connection with an attempted safe cracking early today.

Detective Alfred Myer noticed two men loitering in front of the Miller Coal company offices when he passed them early this morning in an automobile. The detective drove on, picked up a patrolman and returned.

Two men were leaving the office, both fled but one was captured. An investigation revealed that the knob had been knocked off the safe in the office but the door held and the yeggs were unsuccessful in their effort to open it. A set of safe cracking tools was found in an automobile a short distance away.

COOPER PLANS SOUTHERN TRIP

Governor-elect Will Leave Cincinnati Today.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 14.—Myers Cooper, governor-elect, was to leave his home here today for a tour of southern states, remaining away until December 1. His itinerary has not been made public.

It is believed that Cooper has decided to make use of the hiatus, between now and the time when he will make his cabinet appointments and map out his legislative program, for complete rest and relaxation from the arduous campaign which ended with his election to the governorship.

Dr. W. N. RICE, 82, DIES SUDDENLY

DELaware, O., Nov. 14.—Dr. William North Rice, 82, professor emeritus of geology at Connecticut Wesleyan university, was dead at the home of his son here today, having succumbed to complications induced by advancing age. Death came late yesterday and was unexpected, the aged scientist having dined with his family, and was apparently in good health at the time of his sudden demise.

Dr. Rice, widely known as the author of many scientific and religious books, was three times acting president of Connecticut Wesleyan university. He was a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university, held a degree of doctor of philosophy from Yale and honorary degrees from Syracuse and Wesleyan universities.

Home-Made, but Ends Bad Cough In a Hurry

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Put this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. Take a spoonful, but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and soothes away the inflammation. At the same time it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in a minute time, to a "fit" bronchial cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of croesote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex.

It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Enroll in Red Cross

Citing the fact that the East Liverpool chapter during last year contributed toward the salary of a full time public health nurse and helped 200 needy families in the district, while calls next year probably will be more numerous, the Rev. Edgar A. Walker, Emanuel Presbyterian church pastor, who will direct the canvass, today appealed for a "yes" answer in the annual Red Cross roll call which will begin here tomorrow.

Fifteen hundred members and $2,500 in funds are asked by the Ceramic City chapter which needs funds to continue the public health service. Fifty cents from each membership will be paid into the national Red Cross treasury, while the rest will be kept for home work.

President-elect Herbert Hoover probably knows better than any other American the value of this organization, and its immeasurable service for humanity. He sounds the following call for support of the roll call, which will close here Saturday night after a three-day campaign:

"The American Red Cross has become an indispensable part of our national life. In peace and war, it has served in the name of the American people and in our most exacting emergencies it never has failed us. When the American Red Cross goes into action for the relief of stricken people, we all unconsciously feel and are proud of the fact that it is our Red Cross and that we are having a part in its work. It is our privilege and duty to make this a reality and by becoming members during the annual roll call to have a share in its great work in behalf of humanity."

The Red Cross record in the Mississippi flood disaster and the recent West Indian hurricane which exacted hundreds of lives and left thousands homeless in Porto Rico and Florida, is still fresh memory. And scores of other calls upon the mercy agency have impressed upon the minds of Americans the need of this institution.

As the president-elect says, it is not only our duty, but our privilege, to enroll in the Red Cross membership.

Dining Car Problem

It has been generally the impression of the public that the railroads for a number of years have been engaged in competition to see which can lose the greatest amount of money on its dining car service. And now it is revealed by the New York Central that while gross earnings in 1927 on the 156 dining cars it operates was $5,760,000, the cost of operation was in excess of seven millions of dollars. In other words, that is a net loss of $1,272,000.

No one will dispute that such a condition is a paradox in a business where efficiency is generally regarded as the highest possible exemplification of American industrial methods.

This is an illuminating example of how business is erected on human foible. Or, in the words of the New York Central, the dining car is an expensive necessity. Notwithstanding the loss in revenue traced to the dining car, it is one of the factors in railroading that makes for profit.

This problem in dining car operation arises from a well known condition. The roads are in sharp competition for passenger business. No main travel line anywhere enjoys a monopoly. Travelers have a wide choice, and influence of that choice is the chief dependence of every road for passenger business. Hence while there may be some dependence upon scenery, smoothness of roadbed, time and the like, there also must be taken into consideration that the public likes to be well fed when it patronizes a dining car, notwithstanding that it may result in financial loss to the carrier to prepare and serve the food.

No railroad has been known to make a roundabout trip because of scenery, nor has scenery ever stood in the path of a carrier which wanted to make a short cut. Speed and safety are necessities, albeit advantageous in advertising service to the public. But the principal things upon which the railroads have come to depend in their appeals to the public are those which apply to dining car service. Passengers who don't care for flitting scenery beguile themselves while traveling by eating. Most of them eat too much and too often. The railroads know about this human weakness, and they have come to cash in upon it. Therefore they are willing to lose money feeding the people, if the people will only travel on their railroad.

And the more money the railroad loses serving meals to the passenger, the more money it makes hauling that passenger while he eats.

Dr. Frank Crane

Newspaper readers the country over have been acquainted for years with Dr. Frank Crane through the medium of the editorial comments he has syndicated in the press of every state and most of the cities. Dr. Crane was an inspirational writer with an unusually broad view, an ability to interpret what sometimes was uncanny in its accuracy, and with a writing flair that made his offerings sufficiently spicy to hold a reader's attention.

Dr. Crane died the other day. In the stress of excitement attendant upon the election his death was somewhat overlooked by many of the newspapers which even then were publishing his daily editorial comment.

As a minister, Dr. Crane was noted for the fearlessness of his interpretation of the Good Book and its teachings. And in later life when he had given up the pulpit and confined his activities exclusively to writing and lecturing, he still was noted for this same fearlessness. Dr. Crane was not bigoted, nor was he of the holier-than-thou type. He was first an American, and secondly a man who sought to aid his fellowmen through the medium of broad-minded teachings.

Dr. Crane had an inexhaustible fund of information which he passed on to the people for whatever benefit they might get out of it, and it is not amiss to say that the readers of Dr. Crane's offerings are better off for the time they devoted to him each day.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre,

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Long Island side table in immaculate splendor. He seemed unconscious of those about him while sipping at his drink. Finally there was a piercing scream and a lady romped for the exit. Other ladies ditta. Around the gentleman's dinner coat collar and up and down his lapels raced a white mouse. After a time he calmly picked it up, restored it to his pocket and returned to his drink. What do you make of it, Watson?

And on a big estate near Roslyn there is a full grown elephant which is there merely for the amusement of the kiddies. That's taking the big kick out of a circus!

The New York office boy has a brisk executive manner. He is a snappy dresser with a worldliness to make the most nonchalant stranger humble his hat. Many executives have been drawn from ranks of office boys. In other cities he is usually just a red headed, freckled faced pea shooter, whose grandmother expires when he wants an afternoon off. Here he is given all authority for which he has no capacity.

Attendants in snow white uniforms even to white shoes add to the whatever you might call it. There are glorified baths where dogs are soaped, scrubbed and dressed up and partitioned solariums where they may rest on luxurious blankets to be dried in the sun.

They are plucked scientifically and their nails are clipped with sterilized instruments. Also electrical massaging machines, exercising runways and in one there are ramps evidently so the dog will not have to walk up or down tiresome steps.

The only value of such nonsense is that expert trainers are employed to teach dogs to heel and to improve their house manners. In a way they are dog colleges where the pup is taken and in about six weeks becomes a polite and excellently behaved animal.

They are scientifically fed from germless aluminum containers and their teeth are cleaned daily. One has a weekly rate of $60. Strangely enough, dogs under such scientific de rale are always developing unheard of maladies while those left to natural bent reach ripe years.

The highly pedigreed canine is insured against death and accident and in case he nips a stranger the owner is protected. In one kennel I visited the attendant said there were seven dogs valued at from $2,000 to $8,000. But a real dog owner would not think of placing a monetary value on his lowliest mutt.

He came drifting into a night club after 2 a. m., sitting alone at a ring-

Women and the Baltimore Bar.

The recent action of the Bar association of Baltimore in refusing admission to women applicants for membership, although they were in good professional standing in the courts, was taken before the presidential election, and was carried only by a slender majority. Now that the women of Baltimore and all Maryland, as elsewhere, have displayed such a remarkable influence in national affairs, the majority of Baltimore's male lawyers is likely to swing to the other side. Most of them are Democrats in state and city politics, and to maintain their offish attitude towards capable women members of their profession, merely because they are women, would be rather stupid strategy to say the least. We venture the prediction that within another year these defeated applicants will be members in good standing of the Baltimore Bar association, entitled to all the privileges and advantages which that membership carries.—Columbus Dispatch.

Don't Be Afraid of Criticism.

Do you feel uneasy in the presence of one who seems to analyze you?

You fear the estimate made may prove to be accurate.

You know your shortcomings.

You try to hide your faults, but some people manage to pierce your armor.

This not only annoys you—it seems to take your self-reliance.

If your offences have not been of a serious nature, there is no reason why you should feel uncomfortable before a man who realizes your weakness.

Practically every person is weak in one way or another.

Few people would care to be known at their true value.

There may not be grave mistakes, but there are usually things in every person's life that he or she prefers to keep out of the public eye.

If your frailties are grave in nature, why don't you try harder to overcome them?

The effort that you make will strengthen you and give you more confidence in yourself.

Your will may be weak, but if you are in earnest about improvement, you can master yourself, and then you need not be afraid of any man's criticism.

You will remain weak as long as you fear any man.

"The Home of the Finest Musical Instruments"

MRS. JENNIE L. MILHOLLAND is one of the hundreds of women who have written us, after following our suggestion to test Crisco by tasting it—just as a careful cook tastes her butter and milk. You'll be interested in what she discovered.

"I have been doing my own family cooking for more than forty years. Many years ago I discovered the good qualities of Crisco by tasting it in comparison with other cooking fats. I taste everything I cook, and I am guided solely by tasting until I have the right ingredients compounded to my taste. I use Crisco because I have for many years considered it the sweetest and most wholesome of all cooking fats."

Now, everything we cook is judged by its taste. But how can we expect our foods to taste good unless the things we made them of taste good, too?

Compare the taste of Crisco with that of other cooking fats. Had you imagined there could be such a difference? Think what an improvement Crisco's sweet, wholesome flavor will make in the taste of your own pies, cakes, muffins, biscuits and fried foods!

"BOOZE IS DONE FOR IN THIS COUNTRY" --- SUNDAY

"Booze is done for in this country," he shouted. "But eight states registered for it in the recent election, and of the eight six are genuinely dry and remained in the wet column for political reasons. Of the other two, Rhode Island did not ratify the Eighteenth amendment. And it voted adversely by but 1,500 votes."

In attendance at delegations with the Presbyterians was a contingent of boys and girls from No. 9 school taught by Miss Morgan, a Kent graduate who is a member of the revival choir; another of business women of the city and a large aggregation of men and women from Columbiana, AB, at the suggestion of Music Director Homer Rodeheaver, stood up and were cordially greeted by others in the audience.

The Presbyterians, meeting for the most part in the First Presbyterian church, marched to the tabernacle. Urges Singing of Church Carols.

Rodeheaver urged the revival of the singing of church carols as one of the results of the revival. "Such a departure will bring back the spirit of Christmas more than any thing else I know," he declared. "This revival should go far in renewing your singing, personal testimony and the old time spirit in the churches." He sang, accompanied by Robert Matthews, "This Wonderful Dream." Later with Mrs. Louise Brookman Taylor, of Wellsville, he sang "The Old Rugged Cross." He also agreed to be the initial Red Cross subscriber in East Liverpool.

In the afternoon he sang "Wonderful Mercy," an Ackley composition, and, with Albert Peterson, "Marvelous Grace."

The invocations of the two services were by Rev. Mr. Brindley, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church in the afternoon, and Major Joseph Hughes of the Salvation Army in the evening. Rev. Mr. McKinney, of Lincoln highway, made a business announcement.

Assembling for the first time during the campaign more than a hundred persons heard Miss Florence Kinney, of Springfield, O., give her initial Bible lesson after the afternoon sermon yesterday. It had to do with the history of the scriptures. "Because its 66 books have been written by between 35 and 40 men who were farmers, shepherds, prophets, kings, men of poverty and wealth who in their productions had a singleness of form and harmony with a common purpose—man's redemption—the unique fact is its greatest proof of being an inspired volume," she said.

That every lesson would be complete in itself was announced by her with the fact that today's lesson would be a repeat of the creation. Finally, by request, she said, four lessons would be devoted to Revelations.

Rising, they were greeted by Mrs. Sunday, who came to the tabernacle before leaving for Winona Lake, Ind. "I have not been home for eight weeks," she explains. "I shall come back Saturday or Monday. I congratulate you on your attendance."

Rivalry in Denominational Nights.

The denominational nights have started a bit of rivalry between the Presbyterians and the Methodists which largely had been aided and abetted by Homer Rodeheaver, himself a Methodist. Affecting to wish to entice the Presbyterians in attendance, of which Mr. and Mrs. Sunday and Mr. Matthews are members, he declared that "if the Methodists fall down I shall resign from Methodism and join the Salvation Army, if they will take me."

Baptists, members of Christian churches and the Salvation Army will attend tonight. They will have the advantage of the latter's band and some lively preliminary music and singing are anticipated.

The Methodists, scheduled for Thursday night, are making their own plans for their visit to the tabernacle.

Sermon Friday on "Mothers."

Persons old and infirm, those shut in and all incapacitated from attending the services are to be brought to the tabernacle by motor cars in the degree possible Friday afternoon when Mr. Sunday is to preach on the subject "Mothers."

Stresses Reading of Bible.

Thence for upwards of 400 years until the coming of John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ, God had no mouth piece in the world.

She said that the world expected to see the record of the Bible written in men. Moody, she said, declared that often a revised version was necessary because of the failure to thus observe it.

She stressed the reading of the Bible carefully and repeatedly maintaining that it was its own best witness. She declared Bible study in Springfield, Ohio, was still going on after 17 years following Mr. Sunday's visit to the city.

She particularly stressed the second coming of Christ which she said she never heard preached until she heard Mr. Sunday doing so.

The Bible makes 350 references to it" she said. "It well may be that living in the last dispensation as we are now doing that people here may live to witness it. It is our duty to watch, pray and be ready."

Boys and girls are to be given an illustrated lecture by Mr. Sunday on Saturday afternoon of this week. Parents were last night urged to have their children in attendance.

"Nuts for Skeptics to Crack" was announced by Mr. Sunday as the theme for his sermon on Saturday night. He said this discourse was one on which he had perhaps given more study than any of his repertoire. "It is one that will strengthen Christians in their faith and develop belief in those not having any," he commented.

Refers to Age of World.

Using practically the Ussher chronology she explained that the world may have been much older than thus computed but suggested that the recording of dates began a few thousand years ago.

Beginning with the year 4000 B. C., she referred to Adam as the most notable personage of the initial thousand and years recorded and ten outstanding events in the interim to be the creation of man, the fall of man, the death of Abel and the translation of Enoch in the year 3000 B. C. Abraham appeared when God changed His plans and decided to use a single nation to vehicle His truths to the world in the year 2000 B. C. The outstanding figure between Abraham and Noah was Noah and the three months peak events, the vice of the then world, the great flood and the building of the tower of Babel.

The first eleven chapters of the Book of Genesis, she said covered the initial two thousand years of recorded time.

About the year 1000 B. C. Solomon was king of Israel in all of the glory attending the Palestinian kingdom. Between him and Abraham, about the year 1500 B. C., was Moses. In that interim occurred the journeys of the patriarchs, the sojourn in Egypt, the wilderness wonderings, the conquering of Caanan, the rule of the judges and the rule of the kings.

About 500 B. C., the half way period to the coming of Christ Ezra was the major biblical figure. The time was noteworthy because of the division into two kingdoms of Israel, the capture by Babylon and the return from Babylon.

BILLY SUNDAY HITTING TARGET

How ridiculous not to let boys and girls study the Bible in schools, yet later provide chaplains to read it to them in prison.

So rotten were the vices in Pompeii that they can not be publicly told even to masculine audiences.

The woman who is but a mere society woman is but a flop and useless.

Every president from George Washington to Calvin Coolidge has kissed the Bible.

It is harder to marry a girl pawed over than to fatten sheep with a bale of shavings.

The mother who permits her daughter to drive about until 2 o'clock in the morning is simply opening the door of sin and disgrace.

No red-blooded man wants to play second fiddle to a bulldog.

All material comforts save love and faith in God are now sought by most persons.

Some teach that the ideals of Christ are not intended to be lived. Such was once the findings in a Y. M. C. A. debate.

If you have character and faith in God you will succeed.

Some giving away ten cents a day: "God be with you till we meet again."

The government has a revenue of $250,000 each day for a single southern cigarette plant that employs 15,000 men.

One chewing gum manufacturer owns the Chicago Cubs, the Reading, Pa., and Los Angeles, Cal., ball clubs and Catalina island in the latter state to say nothing of a skyscraper. And yet it was sold at a penny a piece.

Some girls are too proud to marry a man with 150 acres of ground and 200 hogs.

Prayer does for your spirit what food does for your body.

When you pray and receive do not forget to extend thanks.

When some people sing they do not make any more of an impression than a music box; you can't boil an egg on a painted face.

God never used a man or woman who can not pray; when I preach I move men; when I pray I move God.

All saints from Genesis to Revelation were men who knew how and did pray.

Some mothers give their children to God before they are born.

God will reward openly the church which will pray to him secretly.

General Lee never won a battle after the passing of his praying aide, Stonewall Jackson.

Meteors will dart the sky Thursday night as they have not done for 34 years.

If you ask for anything in God's name it will be granted to you.

Urge Bible Study in Schools.

That the Bible should be read and even taught in schools was urged by Mr. Sunday last night. "Why should books in opposition to it be permitted to be studied while it has not the right to have an inning of defense," he pointed out.

He said there was more necessary than mere education in the training of young people. "If only the intellectual is emphasized it only gives one keener capabilities to do wrong when there is no spiritual background to bolster human tendencies," he said.

Crime increased 19 per cent last year, he indicated, and cost 15 billions of dollars, while in the same period there were three millions less entering all of the churches of the country. There are 78 million people in the United States who are not affiliated with any Protestant, Roman Catholic or Jewish church and 28,000,000 who never attend Sunday school. It is estimated that there are 10,000,000 unchurched homes.

"People," he said, "are beginning to realize, that men have souls as well as intellects and that a movement, irresistible, is beginning to develop to give the Bible a place in schools by which its contents can be known and assimilated by the youth of the land." Lloyd George, he quoted, "as asking for prayer to aid the world; Woodrow Wilson: "turn to God to prevent world revolution"; Coolidge: "Christianity has no purpose but to merit the favor of the Almighty"; and Foch: "France needs Jesus Christ."

Denounces Impurity.

He denounced scathingly the tendency to modern impurity. Sodom and Gomorrah and Herculaneum and Pompeii, cities destroyed by Vesuvius, were all wasted for this cause.

How impure literature ruined minds was graphically emphasized. "Why don't club women interest themselves in looking over the kind of magazines offered for sale. Some books are shipped by express into communities which can not be sent through the mails. Here is constructive work that can be done with obvious results."

He deprecated the tendencies of some women to be interested in dogs more than in their husbands. "I don't hold that a Pomeranian is a dog," he said. "I would select a bull dog for mine. How flimsy is the life of some women in the nothingness they are addicted to as they essay card playing."

COMB ATLANTIC IN FAINT HOPE FOR LIFEBOATS

Battleship Wyoming and Cutters Circle Rough Waters.

106 MISSING

Marine Veterans Say Further Search is Useless.

By William S. Neal.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 14.—Under a pale new moon 225 miles off Cape Henry, the big battleship Wyoming and three U. S. coast guard cutters astutely circled and zig-zagged through the waters of the Atlantic throughout the night, in the faint hope that some other lives may be saved from the wreck of the Vestrus.

It was at best only a faint hope, veterans of many sea struggles in the treacherous waters off these Virginia capes declared there was none at all, at the four government vessels stuck doggedly at their task upon or

SHARKS CLAIM HUMANWRECKAGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Belief that a fate worse than drowning befell some of those lost from the Vestrus was expressed today by E. J. Marvin of Montclair, N. J., who arrived on the American Shipper and told of seeing sharks swimming through the human loaded wreckage.

Marvin said he saw a man who looked like Earl De Vore, Los Angeles automobile racing driver, pulled beneath the surface of the sea which then turned crimson. Seamen in the lifeboat with Marvin told of seeing sharks.

ers from Washington, and at dawn his morning their searchlights are still raking the waters for traces of the 106 persons still unaccounted for in the catastrophe.

Temperature of Water Down.

The temperature of the waters where the Vestrus went down is estimated at from 40 to 45 degrees. Marine veterans here do not believe it possible that men or women could stand this for three nights on a raft, in an open boat, with a heavy sea running all the time, as it has been since the wreck.

P. A. Dana's Thrilling Story.

Perhaps the most thrilling story of all was that related by Paul A. Dana, 35 years old, of New York City, a representative of the Radio Corporation of America, one of the last to leave the ship. He jumped overboard and seized a piece of wreckage. He saw a woman, Mrs. Clara Ball, a stewardess of New York City, floating on the waves and went to her rescue. Together they clung to the piece of wreckage.

"She and I hung on all night," Dana said. "Alone in the darkness we prayed. I know I did. Hour after hour went by. At times we did not think we could hold on any longer. Dawn came, and there was no sign of a ship. I turned to Mrs. Ball. She held out her hand, tears glistening in her eyes. 'Goodbye,' she said. 'We shrank. We thought it was all over. But one holds dear to life, and, finally, alone came the American Shipper and rescued us.'

Wireless Officer Loses Life.

Not only did the captain of the Vestrus lose his life but the wireless officer, M. J. O'Loughlin, the radio operator of the Lampart and Holt liner, though puzzled by the action of some of the guiding hands of the liner, was constructed from meager radio reports, veterans of the navy and coast guard here gave only unstinted praise for O'Loughlin. The radio operator stayed with the ship to the last, while others were taking to lifeboats and a worried crew and frantic passengers were seeking safety.

O'Loughlin remained to repeat the 'S. O. S.' call and as best he could give rescuers the information necessary for their task.

Although naval and coast guard officers and other seamen here have no reason to doubt reports that shifting of cargo caused the Vestrus disaster, many are unable to understand how this could occur on a mixed passenger and cargo vessel, which was rated as 100 per cent by Lloyds. One explanation advanced by coast guardsmen was that bursting of a sea valve and failure of a water tight compartment to function caused the sinking.

MAN IS HELD FOR ROBBERY

Herbert Parsons Goes to Jail in Alliance.

Herbert Parsons, 37, 31 East Third street, was held under $500 bond for the Stark county grand jury by Municipal Judge J. J. Brown, Alliance, yesterday, charged with entering the home of Dr. L. A. Crawford, Alliance, the day before, with the intention of committing a felony. A fine of $50 was assessed against Parsons by Judge Brown for possessing narcotics.

Parsons, according to Alliance police, was caught sitting at a table in Dr. Crawford's office when Mrs. Crawford suddenly entered the office. The suspect fled but was captured a few minutes later by Police Captain Harry L. Brown.

In the prisoner's necktie police said they found a hypodermic needle and a quantity of cocaine.

Vice-President Pays for Burial of Brad Hulbert.

BOWERY FIGURE

Drifted Out of Marietta Nearly 50 Years Ago.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Brad Hulbert, "the gentleman of the bowery," was buried today in Mt. Olivet cemetery at Maspeth, Long Island, Brad Hulbert who drifted out of Marietta, O., nearly 50 years ago, when Charles Dawes was just plain Charles Dawes.

Death stole upon Brad Hulbert the gentleman of the bowery," last Saturday night, and his body, unclaimed and unnoticed, went up to the city morgue. Not a penny in the pockets, not a friend in the world. Only a handful of Bowery riffraffs to bid him farewell.

But on Sunday a limousine bearing a coat of arms pulled up at Bellevue, where the morgue is located, and two men stepped out. One was silksat, the other wore a derby. One was the vice-president of the United States, the other his secret service boy.

They stepped into the morgue, a sheet was removed and the man who had bragged of his friendship to "Charley" was vindicated in his death.

"He was my friend," said Vice President Dawes, and dropping a carnation on the shabbily clothed body, he left orders and funds, then passed out.

So last night at the undertaking rooms of Charles Bacigalupo, "the gentleman of the bowery" lay in state in a full dress suit, while past his casket drifted his friends from the flop house and Chatham Square.

Lifeboats Sink

There were stories of the bravery of the crew. Of criticism of the officers. Why didn't they lower the boat sooner? That was one of the main complaints. Why was an S. O. S. signal sent out Sunday and then canceled, only to be sent out crackling through the ether again? That was another.

Crew Criticized.

O. L. Maxey, of Richmond, Va., a passenger also criticized the slowness of the crew in getting the open boats into the sea. They said it required two hours to lower four lifeboats.

"If the first S. O. S. had been sent out the night before I believe there would have been no occasion for loss of life," said Maxey.

"The seamen failed to hurry up the lifeboats and the whole thing moved without any precision."

Ship Loaded With Automobiles.

Maxey told what he had learned of the cause of the sinking.

"We don't know what caused the disaster," Maxey said, "but the Vestrus was loaded with automobiles and I do not see how the cargo could have shifted. Water entered the coal bunkers from a leak in the hull."

"We had a list from 10 p. m. Sunday when we struck the gale until 10 a. m. Monday when the hurricane deck was under water."

"We were never told to get ready to take to the boats."

"We were always in water up to our knees."

"We were not frightened; we were prepared to reach a ship, not to die. We knew there had been an S. O. S. sent out. When the Berlin picked us up there was a heavy roll but the seas were not very high."

"For food we had crackers and water. The crew was fine. If the S. O. S. had been sent five hours earlier everyone would have been saved."

Chicago's Wife Rescued.

In a voice that at times choked with emotion, C. F. Slaughter of Chicago, and formerly of San Antonio, Texas, told how he had seen his wife washed away from him and how, for hours, he believed she was dead. Imagine his happiness, he said, when he learned that she had been picked up by the French tanker Myriam.

Award Adams, the chief engineer, was reluctant to talk. He said: "I don't know what happened because I was in the engine room. I will say this—there was nothing wrong with the sea valve. I believe the cargo shifted some but that's outside of my province. Just what happened is a mystery. But it will come out."

Chicagoan's Wife Rescued.

In a voice that at times choked with emotion, C. F. Slaughter of Chicago, and formerly of San Antonio, Texas, told how he had seen his wife washed away from him and how, for hours, he believed she was dead. Imagine his happiness, he said, when he learned that she had been picked up by the French tanker Myriam.

Slaughter, a traveling accountant of the International Harvester company, said that he and his wife were in the last lifeboat that left the Vestrus.

"I held my wife's hand," Slaughter said. "She was so brave. 'Don't fear, dear, God will take care of us,' she said as we jumped, hand in hand, into the lifeboat."

"We had to jump. For, as we stood by the rail, the Vestrus sank suddenly on its starboard side. It seemed to slip back from under us. I am sure it went down in less than five minutes."

Woman of 62 Tells Her Story.

Mrs. Lauretta Moore, a gray-haired, mother-looking woman of 62, whose home is in Jersey City, cried softly as she told her story. Her knees trembled and she could hardly speak.

"Of those babies—those children!" she moaned. "To think that they—so young—had to lose their lives, while we old folks were saved."

She said she was so exhausted when the American Shipper came by her lifeboat that they had to pull her aboard in a net. She floated an hour and a half on a plank before she was picked up by a lifeboat.

"I never had such an experience," she cried.

Babies, babies, babies—that's what almost all of the passengers talked about. They told of 20 children, screaming and terrified, with only one sailor to care for them, and of a sudden crackling overhead as the chil-

Graphic Picture of Tragedy.

That picture of tragedy was graphically described by G. Gladianis, painter of the Vestrus, the solitary survivor stationed in the boat with the children as it was lowered on a davit into the sea just before the Vestrus sank.

"I was the only grown person in the boat with the children," Gladianis said. "As the boat was being lowered I was holding one youngster in my arms. Just as the boat reached the water one of the big booms overhead broke off and came tumbling down upon us."

"It killed the baby in my arms—although I didn't know it in the excitement. It crushed a number of other children, too. The impact flung me out of the boat. I went under and came up, still holding to the baby. My arm was broken. I knew something was wrong with my arm but didn't learn just what until later."

There was one more boat, however, with women and children. It sank when water poured through it from a hole in its bottom.

Mrs. Willebrandt Pays Visit to Palo Alto

Assistant Attorney General Goes to Los Angeles After Visit With President-elect.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 14.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general and storm center of the presidential campaign, hurried to Los Angeles today on departmental business after a brief stop at the home Herbert Hoover here to pay her respects to the president-elect.

Arriving unannounced, Mrs. Willebrandt, whose home is in California, took the Hoover household by surprise. She stopped only a few minutes and was fairly out of the house before her presence was discovered by news reporters.

Mrs. Willebrandt was accompanied by two women friends whose names could not be learned. She flatly declined to discuss politics, but said she had discussed nothing relating to public business with Mr. Hoover. She was in the house less than 15 minutes.

Armed with deep sea fishing tackle purchased in San Francisco on his first venture from his San Juan Hill home since his election, Mr. Hoover turned today to the final phase of preparations for his good will tour of Latin America.

THE plain fact is, and any child can see it, that, barring hard times, disaster and real cause for dissatisfaction, the presidential election of 1932 will be a formality.

CHICAGO sends this story of prohibition:

A fine young university student, aged 22, played a brilliant game of football for his college, then, with his young high school brother, aged 16, also a good football player, he borrowed an automobile and visited Chicago's night clubs. They drank bootleg liquor, took to her home some young woman, of whom they knew only that her name was Pauline, and a little later the older boy was shot by ruffians who followed him in a car, and will probably die.

NEAR that you read of a young laborer, conscience-stricken, haunted for two years by the face of a dying man, confessed that he and two others, having quarreled with a fourth, while drinking bootleg liquor at Coyne Island, agreed to throw the man over the bridge into the river. They threw him over, and when he swam ashore, threw him in again and drowned him.

NOT pleasant liquor, that bootleg stuff.

Parents should find some way to persuade promising young boys not to touch it.

GETS TWO CENTS IN HOLDUP.

Mrs. Mayme Ensign, Defiance, state superintendent of the scientific temperance instruction department of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, made six temperance talks in local schools yesterday.

Two addressed were given to the children of the Central school, two at the Sixth street school and one each at the Maplewood and Gardendale buildings. Posters and pictures, depicting the harmful effects of alcohol and tobacco, were shown by the speaker.

Mrs. Ensign was accompanied to East Liverpool by Mrs. Anna Edgerton, Salem, county superintendent of the American Shipper, reported:

"Arrived at radio position of the Vestrus at 10:30 p. m. (Monday). Cruised about until 3:40 a. m. (Tuesday), when the first flare was sighted. At 4:05 o'clock the first boat was alongside. Rescued five boats. All occupants are aboard. At 7:30 steamed through wreckage and found man and woman in the water. Launched boat and picked up two of pluckiest people I ever met. They were 18 hours in the water. Steamed through wreckage seeking further survivors until noon. Proceeding to New York, leaving several naval vessels at scene of disaster."

Rescues, came from the skippers of the American Shipper and the Commander of the Wyoming, Capt. Cummins, of the American Shipper, reported:

"He is president of all the people, and as such he is entitled to the cooperation of every citizen in the development of a program calculated to promote the welfare and best interests of the country."

At the same time, the governor declared emphatically that the principles may seriously divide public thought and public opinion during the progress of the campaign, after the American people have made their decision, the man selected is not president of the Republican party, but is president of the American people.

"We picked up five women passengers floating in life preservers and three men of crew in same manner, but one was holding onto hatch cover. The American Shipper, Myriam and Berlin picked up five, two and one lifeboats, respectively.

"All boats which put off from Vestrus safely are accounted for, with the fate of the raft still in doubt."

Survivors criticize the crew of the Vestrus, saying they acted too slowly in the face of the grave danger and apparently lacked precision in life-saving work.

Many Seamen Saved.

A check-up of the rescue chart showed a number of seamen saved over passengers. On the American Shipper there were more than twice as many members of the Vestrus' crew as there were passengers. On the Berlin were more than three times as many seamen as passengers while the Myriam had more than six times as many members of the crew as there were passengers.

Only the Wyoming had more passengers than seamen on board and her rescues were comparatively small.

Officials of the Lampart and Holt held out the slender hope that small vessels without any radio equipment may have been in the neighborhood of the disaster and rescued some of the persons not yet reported. However, this ray of optimism was dimmed by the fact that more than a dozen ships have been cruising in the neighborhood since late Monday afternoon without encountering any small craft.

theaters and have no time for the things that are worthwhile. "Morals," he continued, "can not be improved without religion. Society-catering, lawlessness, racketeering and the failure to take religion into business imperil our destiny. Only by and through the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ can these be curtailed. Why call ye me Lord and do these things?"

Hits Dancing and Cards.

The union of the church and state, he said, would never occur under the Stars and Stripes.

He predicted that God would eventually purify the world. "He will not use water again, but he may fire, pestilence or war," he said.

"If the church folk of East Liverpool will but stop their dancing, clubs and other departures for the moment and come out on God's side, godliness will flourish again in this section of the Ohio valley. Why call ye me Lord and do these things?" he shouted as, calling on all that would aid to him, he brought his hearers to their feet.

In his subsequent prayer he declared: "When I say goodbye to East Liverpool it will be for the last time. I can not come back in another 16 years for I shall not be here."

Afternoon Sermon.

"Salvation is not universal even though Jesus Christ died on the cross for mankind," declared Mr. Sunday in the afternoon. "It is for those who accept it. God has put coal, water and oil in the ground, but we have to go after them to get them. It is the same with salvation. His theme was 'Prayer' and his text: Luke II:1—'Lord teach us to pray.'

The words of the text imply that the disciples, making the request were willing to be taught and came to the One who could teach them. Gymnasiums have become a feature in the curriculum of all educational institutions because they develop the physique. If one is not strong in body his value for activity is lessened.

what they get. "The finest exhibition of prayer in the New Testament was the calling of Lazarus from the tomb. It is harder to use the victory that to ask for it. Why can not Christians show they are such and not by their apathy and stagnation indicate they are not what they should be?"

He said that prayer alters the countenances of those given to the habit of close communion with God.

"Tramps know of whom to ask aid," he pointed out, "and you don't see any handsome faces in prison." He told of a meeting in Chicago which D. L. Moody was holding in 1876. He declared that the evangelist did not like the face of the assistant chief usher. He said so to one of the ministers and asked the man's name. The latter replied 'Charles J. Grieane.' He was the same man who later shot

"The Sermon on the Mount," he contended, "is the true basis of prayer. It makes for a right relationship with God; it is simply like a child talking with its father. The Unitarians think that the laws of God are uniform and nothing can transcend them, but God is more than a mere Creator. He is more than the law governing the universe."

He elicited applause when he declared that science can not explain or deny the power of prayer while every reason must account for every activity.

He deplored the failure of the church to pray in secret which he said would result in public answer. Mothers, he averred, do not pray for their husbands and children as they should.

He referred to the prayers of Stonewall Jackson during the Civil war. He was once heard asking that God bring the war to a quick end so that all could return to the only work worthwhile—the salvation of souls. It is significant that after his passing Lee never won a battle."

"Eight years of kidney trouble had sapped my strength and energy, making me a physical wreck. Indigestion and dizziness were two conditions I had to contend with other than the kidney trouble. My system filled with poisons that brought on aches and pains until my body was sore all the time. I felt gloomy and down-hearted and lost all interest in life. The fact that Konjola is free of harmful drugs and narcotics gave me faith in it and I decided to give it a trial. Undescribable relief was the reward for my faith—new health was restored to me and a new joy in living now permeates my whole system. Within a few days I began gaining in strength and energy. All the aches and pains are ended. I sleep through the night without ever being disturbed and all the miserable ailments I suffered have disappeared. That is what Konjola has for all sufferers."

To the first half-million new
Ford owners

TO THE half-million men and women who have received new Fords in the last eleven months, there is no need to dwell on the performance of the car.

You have tested its speed on the open road. In traffic you have noted its quick acceleration and the safety of its brakes. You know how it climbs the hills. On long trips and over rough stretches you have come to appreciate its easy-riding comfort. Continuous driving has proved its economy of operation and low cost of upkeep.

This is an invitation to you to take full advantage of the service facilities of the Ford dealer organization so that you may continue to enjoy many thousands of miles of carefree, economical motoring.

The point is this. You have a great car in the new Ford. It is simple in design, constructed of the best materials and machined with unusual accuracy. It is so well-made, in fact, that it requires surprisingly little attention. Yet that doesn't mean it should be neglected. Like every other fine piece of machinery, it will serve you better and longer if given proper care.

One of the best ways to do this is to take your car to the Ford dealer every 500 miles for oiling and greasing and a checking-up of the little things that have such a great bearing on long life and continuously good performance.

Such an inspection may mean a great deal to your car. To you it means thousands upon thousands of miles of motoring without a care—without ever lifting the hood.

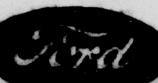

Ford dealers everywhere have been specially trained and equipped to service the new Ford. You will find them prompt and reliable in their work, fair in their charges, and sincerely eager to help you get the greatest possible use from your car for the longest period at a minimum of trouble and expense. That is the true meaning of Ford Service.

Stanford-Army Grid Clash May Approach Million-Dollar Mark

Scalpers Will Take Share, Too

Game With Cardinals Takes Place of Navy Contest.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The million dollar gate—heretofore the particular prerogative of Dempsey and Rickard, as it might be again—may be coming to inter-collegiate football at last.

Close observers of the ticket racket along Broadway were inclined today to think it was and, without hesitation, they named the Army-Stanford game at the Yankee stadium on December 1 as a possible medium for same. It is the exaggerated prices that will be asked and obtained by ticket speculators that figure to make an approach to the million-dollar house at least possible, of course the legitimate receipts will be something else again.

Scalpers Will Be Busy.

They say the demand today exceeds anything that the Army-Navy Dame game has known and no rising, young ticket scalper ever went into the barrel over taht one. Some of the boys, however, were left in full possession of a few good ones in the upper stand at last week's Notre Dame

WISCONSIN WILL WIN, SAYS MYSTIC

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Nov. 14.—Superstitious bettors today were putting their money on Wisconsin to beat Iowa in Saturday's mid-western gridiron classic following the prediction here of a noted mystic that the Badger eleven would win.

The forecast was made by Madame Zudella of New York, crystal gazer, in a lecture before the Compu-pan club. She declared Wisconsin would win by the score of 7 to 6.

triumph but that seems to be all right with them. They expect to get that back and have a few nickels for the organ grinder's companion when the Stanford game is in.

They would have had another shot at the big money on the twenty-fourth, for the east is somewhat intrigued by what it hears about the unbeaten Nebraska outfit. But the Army thoughtlessly scheduled that one for the point, where speculation may be said to be almost at a standstill. All you do is speculate about when you are going to get back.

The Army-Nebraska game would have been a natural in New York but they can't be riding the cadets out of West Point every weekend. Besides, Stanford was scheduled as the big shot and so it will remain.

Takes Place of Navy Game.

As a matter of fact, the Cardinals will be the Army's navy this year, if you get me, and even if you don't, in size, color and background, the crowd will be the equal of any that ever saw the two services play, even though the game itself can't hope to produce anything more than a synthetic version of the rivalry that Army and Navy football has known. At that, it won't touch the record crowd that saw the Navy and Notre Dame in the Chicago stadium early this year, except in the matter of money. And there it figures to exceed this game with hundreds of thousands to spare.

Fifty dollars for a first class seat never was too much to ask at the old Army-Navy series. It seldom was too much to pay, either. It all worked out along the lines of the old army game of supply and demand or, rather, demand and demand. You demanded his ticket; he demanded your money.

FAVOR MARSHALL TO LICK BISONS

BETHANY, W. Va., Nov. 14.—With the season more than half over, the Bethany Bisons started training yesterday for their hard game next Saturday with Marshall at Huntington. The Bisons, with a wealth of material at the beginning of the campaign, have had a poor season, but Coach Nuss has his charges hitting on every cylinder now. Before the game is finished Marshall will undoubtedly know that they have a worthy opponent.

Saturday against Westminster the Bisons showed their first real football of the season. Baker, fleet halfback, ran the ends of the New Wilmington outfit repeatedly and the plunging of Fliers was the best seen on the college field in some years. As a whole the line played good, consistent football and some of the substitutes proved their ability to plug up holes when shot into the fray.

Marshall will enter the fray as a favorite in the coming contest by virtue of their record this season. Just two weeks ago they humbled Wittenberg one of the strongest teams in the Buckeye conference, by a 6-0 score, and they gave the Williams and Mary team a hard battle before succumbing to a superior running attack of the eastern team. Against Center college of Kentucky the Marshall team did not look so good, but this was because they had several of their varsity men on the sidelines suffering from injuries received in the Wittenberg game.

OHIO GRID GAMES SATURDAY

Defiance at Ashland.
Case at Baldwin-Wallace.
Findlay at Bowling Green.
Denison at Cincinnati.
Ohio Northern at Dayton.
Miami at Heidelberg.
Va. Military Ins. at Kentucky.
Kenyon at Marietta.
Muskingum at Ohio State.
Ohio Univ. at Ohio Wesleyan.
Ky. Wesleyan at Richmond Tech.
Center at St. Xavier.
Oberlin at Western Reserve.
Miami at Wittenberg.

"Pest" Among Boilermakers

Oberlin Tackles Reserve

Forest City Outfit is Favored to Win.

TAKE a trip to Ashland Saturday if you care to witness a real football contest. Defiance college will supply the opposition to Fred Schmuck's pigskinners. Both teams have lost games, but neither has lost the football "it," and a sweet tangle seems inevitable.

Western Reserve and Oberlin meet in Cleveland. The dope points to a victory for the Forest City outfit, but Oberlin has the habit of putting its best foot forward when it steps out against the Clevelanders.

Up in the northwest, Bowling Green Normal, unbeaten in the little conference, takes on Findlay. Something happened last week and at the end of the struggle, Findlay's under dogs found themselves with a first victory at the expense of Bob Wilson's Defiance maulers.

Miami at Wittenberg.
In the Bix Six, Miami goes to Wittenberg. And should get excited over that. Similar in a lesser degree should be the Denison-Cincinnati rumpus.

Dayton seems to be resting up for its thanksgiving test with the Quantico Marines and so Ohio Northern will come down from Ada to keep the officials in working order.

Having won a game for the first time in five years several weeks ago, Miami discovered that victory was easy to take and since has added two more Ohio conference wins. Can they make it four against Heidelberg, unscathed so far in the conference schedule? Write your own ticket.

Kenyon hasn't upset any dots this year, and it is hard to figure the plot can do different against the pioneers at Marietta on Saturday.

Pedan Points for Wesleyan.

Ohio U. played Wittenberg to a standstill, though it lost by so much as a field goal, and it may be that Pedan's peckies will uncork a similar exhibition against the Bishops at Ohio Wesleyan, although the figures indicate otherwise.

Centre college brings its proud name to St. Xavier's Saturday, and nothing else.

And now just as a sporting proposition you are asked to believe that Muskingum will score more points against Ohio State at Columbus than Wittenberg did when the season was uncorked.

WOOSTER LOSES TEN LETTER MEN

WOOSTER, Ohio, Nov. 14.—When Wooster college stacks up against Akron U in the final grid contest of the season here Saturday it will be the last ten men, on Wooster's squad, will don their uniforms for inter-collegiate football.

Larkins has an opportunity of establishing a record at Ohio State which has seldom been equalled at any university. Should he land a first team position on the cage team, he will be the first man in several years that has played both football and basketball during the first year of eligibility in inter-collegiate athletics.

The East Liverpool youth is now playing a regular tackle on the Buckeye gridiron eleven and is only a sophomore at the university. He plays opposite the veteran Raskodski, named last year as an All-American tackle, on the line. He is studying in the College of Commerce and Administration.

Last year Larkins played regularly on the first team of the freshmen class at the university, alternating at forward and guard. Unless the unexpected occurs, "Blick" will be seen in many of the varsity basketball conference tilts this season.

Smiling and unscathed they went to the showers last Saturday after they had beaten Denison, 16-6, accumulating 10 points in the fourth period. Their tackling was so hard during the Greenville melee that four Denison men had to retire from the field.

Denison men who had previously beaten Miami, 33-0, were outrun, outpunted, and outstayed. In the aerial game, Denison gained 50 yards on one toss which put them in scoring position, but in the last quarter when, backed on their goal, they threw a pass, it was intercepted by Captain Robert Miller of Wittenberg, and eventually cost Denison another touchdown.

Dundee to Attempt a Comeback

Chester Next for Potters

Locals Are Given Light Workouts This Week.

WHILE anticipating no snap in the game Saturday with Coach Keightley's Chester gridders despite the fact that the Purple and Gold, experiencing one of its worst seasons for a number of years, has been beaten rather regularly, Coach Joe Hurst is giving his high school footballers only light practice this week.

Following three hard games on successive Saturdays with Bellaire, Salem and Martin Ferry, the Blue and White gridders are deserving of a brief respite before taking on two other tough foes after the Chester encounter.

The locals have finished their barnstorming for the present season. Although they are the visiting squad in Saturday's tilt, the game takes on a local aspect in view of the closeness of Smith Field.

Youngstown East comes to Patterson Field on the following Saturday and on Thanksgiving day the Potters indulge in their annual grid festivities with their Wellsville rivals.

With the exception of Halfback Chetwyn, the members of the team are in good condition for the home stretch drive.

The squad will devote its attention chiefly to signal drill, new plays and possibly one or two short scrimmages to keep in shape for the Chester engagement.

To cover the prospective deficit of railway in Germany, passenger and freight rates are to be raised.

AND NOW RAJAH'S A REGULAR BEAR

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Rogers Hornsby today was a full-fledged member of the Cub family, having affixed his signature to a contract in the presence of President William Veeck and Owner William Wrigley.

It was a very pretty little ceremony which all three seemed heartily to enjoy. A half dozen newspaper cameramen, with a booming flashlight salute, also witnessed the Rajah's signing.

Hornsby comes to the Cubs from Boston Braves in exchange for cash stated to be in excess of $125,000 and five players.

President Veeck said Hornsby's contract with the Brains covers two years of service, but the proxy did not disclose the salary figure. It is reported, however, that Hornsby will receive $27,000 a year, plus an attractive bonus.

Thrilling story of love of two girls for the same man

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

"Am I?" And she laughed too, out of sheer happiness. They drove through the park where the shrubs were spicy and sweet, and the tall trees black and sinister against a faintly moonlit sky.

And then she could smell the salt wind and hear the pounding of the surf, and they were on a road near the sea, all alone . . . Ralph and she . . .

She felt his arm behind her, drawing her to him.

She sighed, and let her head rest against his shoulder. She didn't "have to think, she just wanted to be near him . . . always . . .

He began to talk. "Look here, you don't want to work in a big office, all full of gum chewing stenographers, do you?"

"No, but you can't pick out the kind you want. Why, I've been weeks and weeks just getting any kind. Why I thought—"

"Wouldn't you rather work somewhere in a nice office where you'd have a chance to show what you could do, and get more money for less work?"

"Yes, but—"

"And move out of that mausoleum where you're living, into a decent sort of place—wouldn't you?"

"Of course!"

"Well then, you quit that job you have, and leave everything to me. I'll fix things—"

"But it might take a long time. Couldn't I just keep it until—"

"Hold on—who's running this? Didn't I tell you I'd manage this?"

"But I didn't know you meant—"

"I meant I'd take care of you. Didn't I tell you that?"

She blinked up at him, her small white face radiant with wonder and love. He leaned toward, laughing, and she closed her eyes and let him kiss her.

"He's mine now—all mine!" she thought, and triumph and pain shot through her, and overwhelming happiness.

After a while he drove on again, and they went into a warm, bright roadhouse where there was a great fire-place, and people dining and dancing. She ate something, and drank something she hardly knew what. GINGERALE with something added out of a flat silver flask Ralph had in a back pocket.

It was a golden night, a night of dreams. Unreal. Like something out of the Arabian Nights.

He glanced at the watch on his wrist. "Half past eleven, and I've got to be at the office at seven tomorrow—or I should be—there's a big bond issue breaking. You didn't know I was a bond salesman, did you?"

"No," she said smiling. He might have said ditch-digger, or President of the United States, it wouldn't have mattered. He was Ralph—that was enough.

"Well, it's a little better than that. I have my own business, stocks and bonds."

"That's wonderful!" she breathed.

"You're a fraud," he laughed back. "You don't know the difference between a bond office and a peanut stand. Come on, we've got to be moving, it's getting late!"

The house was very quiet when Daphne tiptoed into the hall, but there was a light in Miss Viola's parlor, where she sat yawning over a dress she was finishing.

Miss Viola pushed the green velvet curtain aside, and poked a disheveled grayish head into the hall. "Is that you, Miss Haines? Come in for a minute, I'm that sleepy if I don't talk to someone . . . pardon me, I just can't help yawning. . . . I wish I hadn't promised this dress, I'm too easy going for my own good. Mrs. Dambacher wants to wear it to the Native Daughters tomorrow, it'll look good on her, she's got a good figure if she is fleshy—"

Her pudgy hands stiched on while she talked.

Daphne wavered in the doorway, trying to come back to earth.

"I had a wonderful time!" she said finally.

"Oh, were you out somewhere?" And then scenting romance. "With your young man?"

"Yes, with someone—someone I knew at home—"

She was still floundering, embarrassed by Miss Viola's curious little eyes, when she felt a hand behind her waist, and there was Flora McCardle, cigarette in hand, hat on the back of her head, a great bunch of roses and lilies of the valley dyin' on her shoulder.

"So you've been stepping too? I saw you go out. Who is he?"

Daphne blushed. "The one I was telling you about this morning—"

"Yes, I know—but what's his name—I've seen him somewhere."

"McKevitt—Ralph McEvitt. He was the greatest fullback Stanford ever had. He played on—"

"Ralph Iverson McEvitt, stocks and bonds—in the Gael Building on California street!" Flora whistled. "You're the lucky one to pick that up. He's plastered with money—"

"Pikun . . . that word again . . . I told you I knew him at home!" Daphne cried hotly.

Flora hunched indignantly. "Sure you did. I forgot. What's he going to do, get you a job?"

"I got myself a job, today, but he . . . he doesn't want me to keep it," she added, remembering uncomfortably that he had been insistent about it. She had forgotten everything but the kiss.

"Planning to look out for you himself, is that it?"

It was so nearly what Ralph had said, that Daphne stared at her in astonishment. "Why—"

Flora chuckled. "I know—I got a look at him. I haven't lived twenty-seven years for nothing. Well, it's up to you, kid. You do as you like. . . . G'night; I'm sleepy."

She vanished up the dark stairway, but something lingered behind her. The sharp, sweetish smell of gin, the scene of dying flowers. Miss Viola was staring at Daphne, a queer look in her small, nearsighted eyes.

"Good night," Daphne said quickly, and went to her room. She hated them both.

CHAPTER 14.

All the roomers were interested in the nickel trimmed yellow car that drove up to the curb in front of Mrs. Hinckle's every night, and in the good looking young man who climbed out of it.

"Plastered with money!" Flora McCardle told Mrs. Spellman and Mrs. Halliday, the light housekeeping ladies who rocked in each other's rooms languidly gossiped most of the day.

"Him, if McCardle knows so much about him he can't be much good," Mrs. Spellman observed, making vicious stabs at Mr. Spellman's sock she was darnin'.

"Well, I wouldn't want this to go any farther, but I'm a great believer in a working girl staying in her own class. You mark my words, Mrs. Spellman, that poor girl will live to rue the day—"

"You don't mean—?"

"Well, every night it's later. I woke up last night long after midnight, in fact I thought it was the mifkin man, and I was going to say to Mr. Halliday . . . what was I saying?

"About her coming in late—"

"Oh yes, and I raised up in bed, and looked out, and there he was kissing her on the steps. I didn't say anything to Mr. Halliday, but I just thought, 'Well, if an' man but my husband—'"

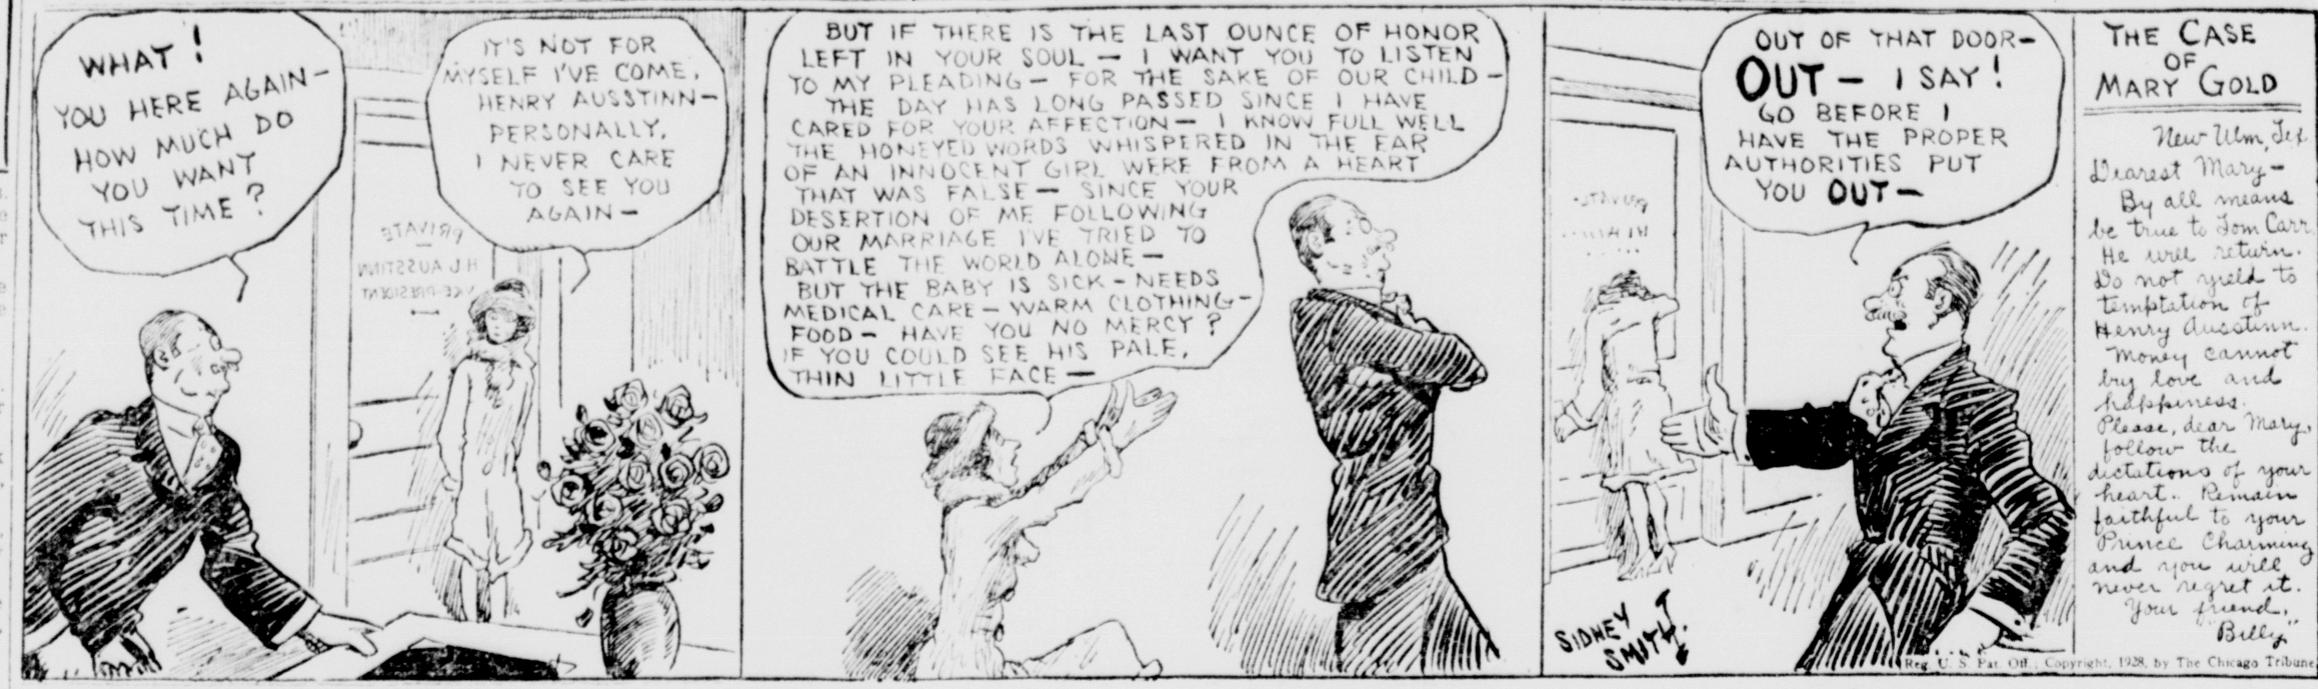

"He must have fine intentions," Mrs. Spellman mumbled, nearly ruining the sock in her excitement.

They talked about it all day. They looked at Daphne with curious, hostile eyes when they passed her in the halls, but if she saw them at all it was only to wonder why they were always scuttling around in kimons. "I'd be ashamed to let myself go like that if I were married!" she thought severely. And then with a little stab of excitement, "I'm going to have all pink house-dresses when I'm married. Pink dimity. Or orsangie?" Why not orsangie? You might as well have what you want while you're day dreaming.

Daphne did a lot of day dreaming. More than she knew. Sometimes she would hold a card in her hand for five minutes at a time, looking at it and through it, her mind a thousand miles away, before slipping it into the typewriter at the office.

MISSION UNIT IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Flora Jarvis was hostess to members of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church last night at her home in Tenth street.

During the business session plans were made for a play to be given by the society in the near future. Arrangements were also discussed for the district missionary rally to be held next Thursday in the church.

Social hour followed the business meeting. Contests were won by Mrs. R. D. Ferrell and Mrs. Nat Redinger. Luncheon was served by the hostess.

AUTO HURTLES EMBANKMENT

Ray Green, Driver, Gets Police Hearing Tonight.

Arrested last night on a charge of driving while intoxicated after his automobile had gone part way over an embankment near Silver switch, Ray Green, East Liverpool, is in jail here awaiting a hearing tonight before Mayor Wallace L. Fogo.

A girl whose name, police, said, was Joan Smith, was in the car at the time. She sustained cuts to her nose and head.

The Green car jumped the curb near the substation east of the switch and plunged over the embankment below the drive way leading into the McLain Fire Brick company yards. A telephone pole guy wire prevented the car from going into the gully below the drive way.

Patrolman John Cole placed Green under arrest and took the girl to the office of Dr. J. V. Rice where her injuries were dressed.

Mayor W. L. Fogo chanced to be at the bridge when the truck went over. He heard the rods snap and investigated. He telephoned Chief of Police John Fultz who made the arrest near Wood street.

John Andrews, driving another Kennedy truck was also arrested on a charge of operating the truck without the customary capacity figures printed on the side.

A girl whose name, police, said, was Joan Smith, was in the car at the time. She sustained cuts to her nose and head.

The Green car jumped the curb near the substation east of the switch and plunged over the embankment below the drive way leading into the McLain Fire Brick company yards. A telephone pole guy wire prevented the car from going into the gully below the drive way.

Patrolman John Cole placed Green under arrest and took the girl to the office of Dr. J. V. Rice where her injuries were dressed.

Arrested last night on a charge of driving while intoxicated after his automobile had gone part way over an embankment near Silver switch, Ray Green, East Liverpool, is in jail here awaiting a hearing tonight before Mayor Wallace L. Fogo.
